K. G. Hamilton, Kiwanis chairman of the committee on support of churches, was principal speaker before the luncheon club Tuesday and used as his topic "Human Relations."

He frequently referred to Bible passages to stress his points on patience, humility, sincerity and the desire to serve others.

Mrs. John Johnson concluded the program with the song, "He Lives", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hendrix Spraggins.

Dr. Jack Royal was introduced as a new member. He is associated with Dr. Jim McKenzie.

Janet Gaynor was the first actress to win an Oscar, for her performance in "Seventh Heaven."

School Bill Up in House, Battle Likely

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's $5.7-billion school bill comes up for action in the House today at the height of a blazing controversy over the pace of school desegregation.

Although the issue is not dealt with in the bill, it is expected to furnish much of the fuel for debate, which could spill over into Thursday.

The bill would authorize spending at an increased rate for the next two years on the elementary and secondary school programs enacted last year by Congress in one of President Johnson's major legislative victories.

Approval of the higher spending levels is expected, but not until there has been much talk of busing of school children, de facto segregation and racially imbalanced schools.

These controversial topics have been brought to the fore by Southerners and some Northerners angered at what they regard as too vigorous pushing of school integration by Harold Howe II, commissioner of education.

Howe is charged with responsibility under the 1964 civil rights act for cutting off federal funds for schools that continue to discriminate against Negroes. Of 2,000 school districts in the south, 70 have had funds withheld.

Although it is the Civil Rights Act provision that has Southerners aroused, they are expected to seek amendments to the school bill that would prohibit the use of any federal funds for busing students or correcting racial imbalance.

Howe, appearing before the rules committee Tuesday in its investigation of the desegregation guidelines being followed by the Office of Education, said some communities are using elementary and secondary school act funds for experimental bus programs. But the projects are locally drawn and approved, he said.

The bill would authorize spending for schools at the rate of $2.1 billion this fiscal year and $3.6 billion the following year. Last year's expenditures ran about $1.6 billion. The cost for the current fiscal year is about $500 million more than Johnson requests.

High Interest Slows House Construction

By SALLY RYAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Construction of new houses across the country is off sharply this year as interest rates climb.

Many families are having trouble borrowing money to buy new homes.

"Home building has all but been shattered by tight money," said Burton E. Smith, president of the California Real Estate Association. "I never have seen it so tight, so bad. If and when building starts up again, it will take the builders two years to catch up with the demand."

An Associated Press survey of major cities found: Housing starts in Southern California this year have been the lowest since 1944.

In Dallas, they are the lowest in six years, with apartment construction down 39 per cent and houses 17 per cent.

"With all the hundreds of real estate offices in Dallas, only 12 deals were made in the whole city in half a week," said Mrs. Maude Thompson, a Dallas real estate agent. "Usually it's 80 or so a week."

In Minneapolis, sales of houses have been down and rentals up.

In Seattle, new housing construction has been down, but sales are up 30 per cent from 1965 in the midst of an economic boom.

In Chicago, George Arquilla Jr., Burnside Construction Co. president, said tight money had hurt most of the builders in Chicago, and put some out of business.

In Kansas City, Dale Thompson, president of City Bond and Mortgage, estimated the decline in new starts at 25 to 30 per cent.

The flow of mortgage money for one-family houses has slowed to a trickle, Kansas City builders reported. They said sales had dropped 40 to 50 per cent from 1965.

The builders blame tight money — the difficulty they have in obtaining loans to finance construction of houses and the problems families have in obtaining mortgages to buy the houses.

Thousands of prospective home buyers have had a struggle in getting government-insured Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration loans in recent months.

Lending institutions have been putting their money in other types of loans on which interest rates are higher.

In a move to attract more funds, the government increased the interest rate on FHA and VA-insured mortgages Monday from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent.

The increase makes the rate of return on federally insured mortgages close to the prevailing rates on conventional mortgages, which have averaged about 6.35 per cent.

Senate Set for Another Policy Clash

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rolled up the guns today for another foreign policy clash across the old, battered battlefield of foreign aid.

And Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., a commander of the forces supporting the aid program, acknowledged the measure faced new attacks.

But he cautioned that if it was cut much more it would be like "throwing a 10-foot rope toward a man drowning a mile from shore."

"A noble effort, but not very realistic,"

The House and then the Senate Appropriations Committee

pared the aid bill down to $3.04 billion from the $3.4 billion the administration originally requested.

But Pastore, aware that all the axes haven't been sheathed, observed in an interview: "It's going to be a serious chore to retain the amount as reported by the committee."

Action on the aid appropriation should add fuel to the off-and-on Senate debate over Viet Nam, its cost and the possible roads to war and peace.

Senators Tuesday heard efforts to cool off any talk of using nuclear weapons in the war — and had cold water splashed on any hopes the Soviet Union might play a peace-maker role now.

"I am sorry to say I do not see that prospect," Foy D. Kohler, the American ambassador in Moscow for four years, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Kohler, questioned by the Senators on his nomination as deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs, said he had tried to get Soviet leaders to undertake a mediation role, such as they did in settling the India-Pakistan border fight.

But the Kremlin leaders, he said, "are deeply committed to the other side" and have told him repeatedly they have no authorization from Hanoi to launch a peace effort.

"Until they see a change in Hanoi, I think this will be their position," said Kohler.

Judge Scores Court Ruling

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has made it almost impossible to try a criminal case today, Circuit Judge Henry W. Smith told the Jefferson County Grand Jury here Monday.

Smith, making the remarks in his instructions to the grand jury, said it is a dangerous situation when the Supreme Court "gives precedence to procedure over innocence or guilt."

He advised the grand jury to take notice of what he said where unjust and dangerous charges of police brutality circulating in the state and the nation and urged the jury to consider a resolution condemning such charges and support law enforcement officers.

SEX KITTEN NEEDS TAMING

Dear Helen: This 16-year-old girl wears a bikini all day long, and will go into any house where she is invited, whether or not the wife is home. She is always crying about how so-and-so's husband tried to get her alone to try a little hanky-panky. When she wears nothing more than a couple of hankies and a "Here I am" smile, what can she expect? She practices her "man-power" on our men and expects them to keep hands off.

She tried to pin the blame on my husband once, but I told her if she stopped acting like a sex kitten, men would stop treating her like one. She's a menace to the block on week-ends, and sometimes she'll get what she deserves. How can we make her stay in her own back yard? — The Wives

Dear Helen: I'm her parents' duty to make Brigitte Jr. more clothes-conscious and less husband-conscious. She's a little old for it, but if nothing else gets through, a few spanks on the seat of the "hanky" might stop this panky before it gets out of hand. — H.

Dear Helen: What do you think of raising the driving age to 18 in every state and making it compulsory to draft every boy, regardless, at age 18 or upon high school graduation — this for a two-year duty?

A study made at Stanford University showed about 90 percent of fatal accidents were caused by teenage drivers. By keeping cars out of their hands, we could save lives. Moreover, this would limit dating, hence less pregnancies and less teenage marriages. A potential school dropout would give it more thought if he could not drive to work. Perhaps dropouts should automatically be drafted.

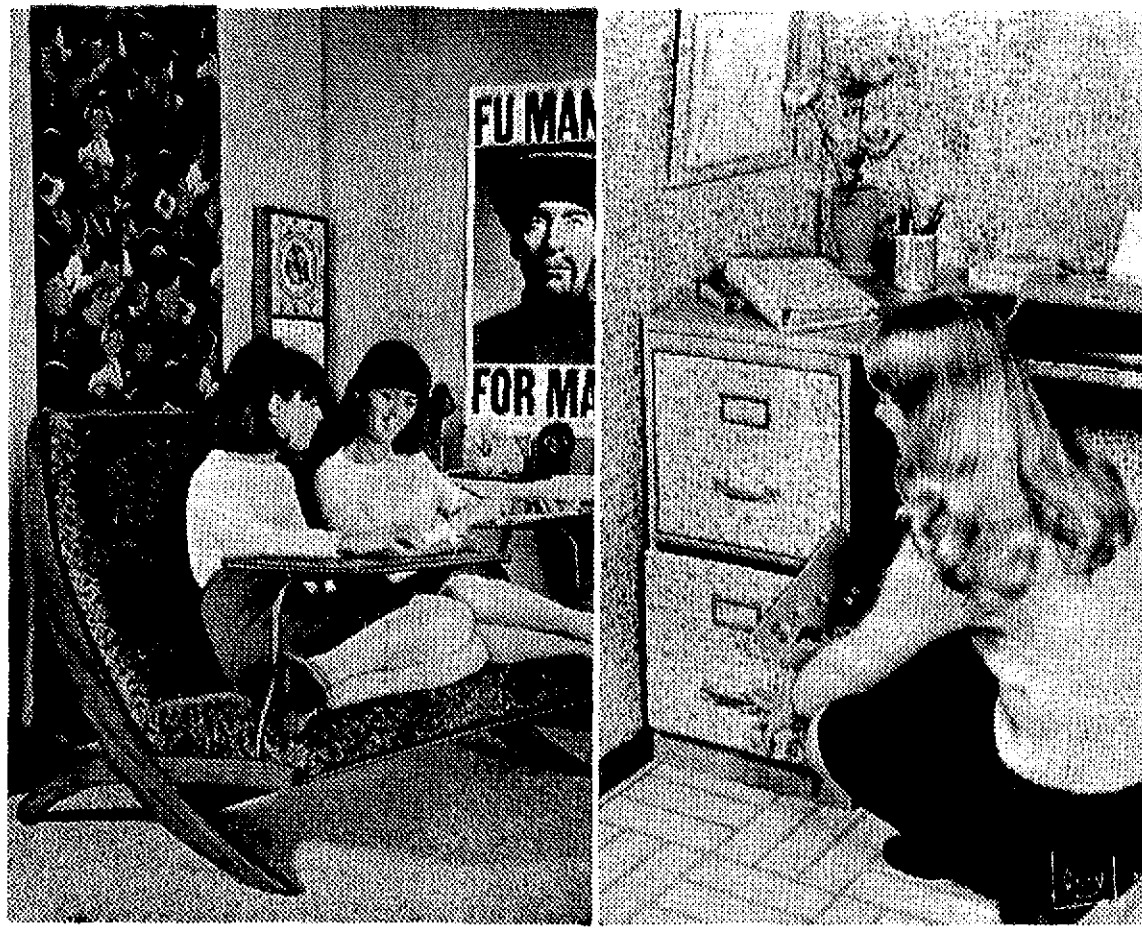

Would you bring my suggestions before the public, please? — C. W. D.

Dear D: Will do, but expect more brickbats than bouquets. — H.

Girls, Love to Redecorate

STUDYING IS MORE fun when the surroundings are right. New double chair-desk (left) even has a name, Twigmund, and tufted, multi-colored shag upholstery. It comes apart in seat, back and desk pieces for use at home or in dormitory. Tween pupil (right) changes home study corner decor with do-it-yourself desk made of file drawer and plywood covered with press-on adhesive-backed vinyl plastic in tweed and fruit, flower and butterfly patterns.

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Girls in the 'twens ages of 9 to 12 probably feel in limbo, much as the overlooked adults in their 30s and 40s do. The great surge to smother teen-agers with attention and separate them and their parents from a record number of dollars is the culprit.

However, the younger ladies are a very important part of any home and of the economy. They, too, would like some special consideration.

In home furnishings, this age group is closely allied to the tastes of their older sisters. And they prefer to do without hand-me-downs, thank you.

Now that school is in full swing, girls look more closely at their room decor. With new and old friends dropping in, the urge to spruce up grows stronger.

Often this is done with a small investment in paint or perhaps press-on designs of vinyl plastic.

Probably her friends will help redecorate with some choice school chitchat mingling with the work tempo. To create a study corner, take any sturdy two-drawer file, top it with a piece of plywood, add two legs, and, voila, a new desk.

Top the desk with a tweedy pattern of stick-on plastic (Cling). For the drawers, try a fruit, flower and butterfly pattern. This also may cover the walls surrounding the desk to create a unified, "special place" effect. Desk accessories also covered with the patterned plastic complete the pretty study setting.

Color is important in a room because it helps create a mood and also can make a room appear larger or smaller.

For example, cheerful and gay, light colors make a room appear larger. Bright colors do the same. Since most young girls study in their rooms, light colors which don't distract are the best. A hot pink, orange or brilliant blue may be used as accent.

Try to pick up a fabric or wall color in the room and repeat it in the pattern of the study corner coverings. This provides a continuity that keeps the bed-study area from looking chopped apart.

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — American record companies have discovered music behind the Iron Curtain.

Angel recently announced a deal with a Russian recording company. Epic has just launched a line of 20 low-priced classical recordings from Czechoslovakia (Supraphon of Prague) which goes from baroque to 20th century. Outstanding among the good set: Orff's "Catullus Carmina," the second part of a trilogy which began with "Carmina Burana," Karel Ancerl conducting the Czech Philharmonic in Mahler's First Symphony and several fine string quartet albums.

But possibly Crossroads' greatest service to humanity is a funny booklet called "Poof! You're An Expert." It's filled with one-liners to be used at concert halls by those who really don't know what they are talking about.

For instance, of Bach say, "Johann, Johann Sebastian! Will there ever be another?" There probably won't, they say, since the name is out of style. Of Mozart: "Ah, Wolfgang Amadeus! All elegance and razz-dazz!" Of renaissance music: "How human. And hence, of course, how droll." Of Italian opera: "He gave the singers too much freedom." Of German opera: "He didn't give the singers enough freedom." Of French: "What do you think of De

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The losers among this season's television entries are being killed off sooner than usual.

In previous years, network controllers of program destinies have given programs several weeks in which to find audiences and normally it could be anticipated that the national Nielsen reports published on Nov. 7 would indicate whether a series would be summarily canceled or renewed.

"But this year," a network program executive predicted grimly, "The Niensens released on Oct. 10 — a week from Monday — are the big ones. I predict that the result will be the biggest explosion of cancellations we've seen in a long time."

"The Tammy Grimes Show" had its final broadcast — its fourth show — on ABC Thursday night. And the industry is bursting with rumors about the fate of six or seven or shows which in early ratings showed symptoms of illness.

Among those reported to be on the critical list are NBC's "The Hero" and "Roger Miller Show," CBS' "Jean Arthur Show" and "Run, Buddy, Run," as well as ABC's "Milton Berle Show" and "12 O'Clock High," a returning show in a new time slot.

Network spokesmen usually protest vehemently that ratings are not the only cause of program death. It is certainly true that a number of programs have survived with low ones — "CBS Reports," NBC's "Telephone Hour" are two that come instantly to mind. But these are prestige shows and the usual rules don't apply.

Most regularly scheduled entertainment shows — the comedies, the spy stories, the westerns, live and die by the ratings, and each season roughly one-third of all shows fail to survive — the lower third of the Nielsen ratings list.

This viewer, having watched at least one episode and more often two, of all the new series, is convinced that the season's new product shapes up as a little more slick, a little better produced — and considerably more bland and cliché-filled even than that of last season.

And like other interested observers, I find it curious that amid the welter of new programs, no single series has yet shown any signs of becoming a real hit as did, in other seasons, shows like "Bewitched," and "Get Smart," which took off like rockets from their pads.

It is possible, of course, that some of the trouble lies in the nation's living rooms. Over the years our relationship with our sets has changed. We have all seen so much entertainment that we are no longer as easy to amuse or move as we once were.

Santisteban" (Epic): A 16-year-old Brazilian guitarist in a fine debut of music from bossa nova to classical.

"Falla's La Vida Breve with Victoria de los Angeles" (Angel) is lushly Spanish.

"Jim Nabors Sings" (Columbia) will please those frustrated by his first album done in a Gomer Pyle voice. His big, beautiful baritone is displayed to fine advantage here.

Venice Rats Frighten the Cats

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Venice plans to launch a massive year-long campaign this month against a growing pest of rats so tough they frighten cats, and so clever they sneer at traps.

These are no ordinary rats. They come from an island used as the city dump and more and more of them have been swimming over to Venice to take up residence.

Hygiene officials say the garbage dump rats are so big and mean that the canal city's famous cats, traditionally considered Venice's best antidote insurance, run away from them. The rats also have become wise to rat traps and are seldom caught by them.

City Hygiene Commissioner Vito Chiarelli has assigned 600 city employees to distribute to every house, store and office in Venice morsels of food prepared with rat poison. Under the plan, poisoned food will be left inside all buildings in hope the rats will carry it off to their hiding places for themselves and their offspring.

Sometimes called the buffalo moth, got its name because it used to damage buffalo hides.

Drysdale, McNally Open World Series

By MIKE RATHET
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Big Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Baltimore's young Dave McNally were on the mound and catcher Andy Etchebarren was on the lookout for Maury Wills as the World Series opened today.

(NEA Telephoto)
DON Drysdale

A sellout crowd of 55,000 began filling into Dodger Stadium early for the 4 p.m., EDT, start of the Series that is expected to be a classic match-up of Dodger pitching and speed vs. Oriole power.

Both Etchebarren, the Orioles' rookie catcher, and Wills, the Dodger shortstop, were well aware that the entire battle could revolve around Baltimore's ability to control the Dodgers on the bases — something Minnesota couldn't do at Dodger Stadium last year.

"I'm looking for Wills and Davis (outfielder Willie Davis) to try and do a lot of running," Etchebarren said.

Etchebarren said the Orioles had paid particular attention to that facet of the game the last weeks of the season.

"We've been working on it the last two weeks," he said. "We've also worked on a few more pickoff plays."

Meanwhile, Wills inferred that the Dodgers would test Etchebarren early because he is a rookie.

"You'd have to consider that," Wills said. "A thing like that shouldn't go untried."

Wills explained that the Dodgers "don't go out there and run blindly," but try to force the other club back to fundamentals.

The Dodgers' ability to put the squeeze on with speed is one of the major reasons Manager Hank Bauer of the Orioles tapped McNally for the opening assignment. A left-hander, McNally would be more effective in holding the Dodgers on base.

Dodger Manager Walt Alston would have preferred to open with his 27-game winner, Sandy Koufax, but had to switch to Drysdale when Koufax was forced to pitch the full nine innings in the pennant-clincher at Philadelphia last Sunday.

As the rotation now stands, Drysdale, 13-16, will be followed to the mound by Koufax, 27-9, and Claude Osteen, 17-14. Jim Palmer, 15-10, and Wally Bunker, 10-6, will follow McNally, 13-6. Osteen and Bunker hook up in Baltimore Saturday when the scene shifts to the American League city.

The Dodgers remained the 8-5 choice because of their pitching and speed. Alston's pitching staff has a 2.63 earned run average and 52 complete games compared with a 3.35 ERA and 23 complete games for the Orioles.

But Bauer has the bombers, particularly Frank Robinson, who became the first player in a decade to win batting's triple crown by leading the league with a .316 batting average, 49 homers and 122 runs batted in.

Over-all, the Orioles have hit .259 with 175 homers to .236 for the Dodgers, who have only 108 homers.

Lineup in Series No Surprise
By BOB MYERS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — There weren't any surprises in the Los Angeles Dodgers' starting lineup today when they took the field for the opening of the World Series with the Baltimore Orioles.

There was Capt. Maury Wills at shortstop, gimp knee and all, and Manager Walton Alston's favorite "rookie," Jim Gilliam, who really isn't a rookie after all these years with the Dodgers at third base.

Taking the mound was 6-foot-6 Don Drysdale, hoping to get back on a winning habit which was interrupted rather unceremoniously after two innings at Philadelphia last Sunday.

"This is my last Series," said the 38-year-old Gilliam, who has retired and been unretired for the past several years. The Dodgers name Gilliam as a coach in the spring and by mid-April Gilliam is back playing third.

Crossett Is Leader In Conference

Four teams in Div. 4AA have one defeat on their conference slate while the Crossett Eagles continue to glide along with an unbeaten record. As it appears now the rest of the league is taking turns beating each other — while the Eagles enjoy the show.

Crossett, seeking a second straight title, is 4-0. Their four chief rivals stand 2-1.

The big question around the league is "who can beat the Eagles," if anybody?

Last week two league members suffered their first conference losses. Arkadelphia, winless and scoreless, rose up to hand the Camden Panthers a big upset 26-18. It was the Badgers first win over Camden in ten years.

Also it was only the second conference victory in two years. Hope's Bobcats also lost their first game, a 13-7 verdict to the Malvern Leopards.

Other results: Smackover 7 Magnolia 6; Crossett 26 Warren 0.

Games this week: Hope at Crossett; Camden at Malvern; Arkadelphia at Magnolia; Smackover at Warren. Non-conference: Fairview at DeQueen.

Dennis Morris, Camden end, and Dan Turner, Hope halfback, share the Individual Scoring Leadership with 36 points each. Both have scored six touchdowns.

R. Riley of Crossett has the best Extra Point mark with 13 PAT.

Crossett continued to lead the league in Net Yards Rushing with 1,374. Fairview is second with 902 and Hope third with 886. Defense against Rushing: Crossett is also the leader yielding only 159 yards. Malvern is second with 530 and Fairview third with 532. Camden leads in Net Yards Passing; Fairview is second and Smackover third. Hope leads in defense against passing, followed by Smackover and Warren.

Crossett has scored the most points (140) and allowed the fewest (13). The Eagles also lead in First Downs (73) and in allowing the fewest to an opponent (26).

The Standings:

Team	W	L
Crossett	4	0
Camden	2	1
Hope	2	1
Fairview	2	1
Malvern	2	1
Smackover	1	2
Arkadelphia	1	2
Warren	0	2

McNally was lost by Dodgers

By GORDON BEARD
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost in the bonus bidding for Dave McNally six years ago, face the young Baltimore Orioles' left-hander today in the opening game of the 1966 World Series.

Although he has been with the Orioles four years and helped them to the American League pennant this season with a 13-6 record, McNally is a virtual unknown when compared with Los Angeles starter Don Drysdale.

"I'm probably the most unsuccessful pitcher ever to start a World Series opener," McNally said on the eve of his big challenge. "But that doesn't matter. When you go out on the field, you either do or don't."

McNally has understated his own case somewhat. Although he completed only five games, McNally kept the Orioles close in contests and Baltimore was 22-11 in games he started.

"Drysdale certainly has earned his reputation," McNally said. "But he's lost a lot of games, too. We're not scared of him."

McNally has come along steadily since turning down an $85,000 bonus offer from the Dodgers in 1960 and signing with Baltimore for $5,000 less.

The 23-year-old left-hander said Oriole scouts Jim Russo and Jim Wilson said him on the Baltimore youth movement, and a lawyer friend told him the extra $5,000 would mean little difference after taxes.

McNally shared almost half of his bonus money with his mother, Mrs. Beth McNally of billings, Mont., and began an investment program for himself. His father was killed on Okinawa during World War II, leaving three older children besides Dave.

Lou Gorman, farm director of the Orioles, describes McNally as "even-tempered, not easily ruffled and a quiet competitor — the perfect make-up for a pitcher."

Frazier Builds a Career

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PHILADELPHIA (NEA) — For all its careful organization, Joe Frazier's boxing career, to hear him tell it, is sheer confusion at this point.

Ask Frazier where he's been and he answers, "I guess I'm not really sure."

Ask him where he thinks he's going and his reply is, "As far as I can, whatever that means."

Shrug. Pause. Then, "Man, give me some time to figure out where I am. I've only had 12 fights, you know. It's too early to tell whether they were important or not."

Surrounding Frazier are people in the fight world who say things like:

"Send the kid against the best. That's the only way he'll learn."

Or he hears: "What's the rush? First you need to get sharp on the hamburgers."

Frazier, America's only boxing gold medalist in the 1964 Olympics, won his first 11 fights by knockouts of it is generally agreed, hamburgers.

It was an impressive record until the second round of his last fight, that 10-round decision over Oscar Bonavena of Argentina.

"When Oscar dropped me twice in the second, I learned something," Frazier said. "I learned that I hadn't learned to keep my hands up. Any time you get dropped twice, you think twice. Believe me, I've been doing some thinking."

Joe Frazier, 23, suddenly was thinking that his career, owned and organized by a Philadelphia based group known as Cloverlay, Inc., was about to disappoint a lot of people who bought his stock.

That the organization pays him $100 a week and half his purses but can't do his fighting for him.

"In those 11 knockouts, things were getting automatic," he said. "Yancy Durham (his trainer) keeps telling me that but I wasn't hearing him right."

Meanwhile, Cloverlay, Inc., thinking is automatic. Frazier will move right up to challenge Cassius Clay someday on a diet of hamburgers and then the better beef until he is ready.

"It is the only way it can be done," said Dr. Bruce Baldwin, chairman of the board of Cloverlay.

"Boxing today is too complex and full of holes to get anywhere solely on your own. We had some anxious moments against Bonavena but obviously we think Joe has the potential, we feel we are handling Joe properly and all he has to do is get in there and fight."

Frazier's next fight has been promised to a Los Angeles promoter, sometime in November. It probably will be against old pro Eddie Machen, Cloverlay says.

Except Cloverlay can't be in there to protect him when

Thinks Porks Will Defeat Baylor Bears

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — There are more ups and downs in college football than there are in a Wall Street stock report.

Last week's wanderings on the rim of Upset Gulch brought a meager m709 picking average and dropped the season's figures to .726.

Michigan State over Michigan: Bubba Smith, Michigan State's defensive end, is 6-7 and 265 pounds. At that size he is big enough to be both the Smith Brothers and make the Wolverines cough up that ball.

UCLA over Rice: Gary Beban and his rugged playmates make the Rice Owls say "Who?"

Notre Dame over Army: The surprising Cadets have allowed only one touchdown in their first three games but Notre Dame is in a different league. The Irish to get at least three TDs.

Alabama over Clemson: The Crimson Tide has both an offense and a defense.

Arkansas over Baylor: Each team has a top flight quarterback but Jon Brittenum of the Porkers has more able helpers.

Southern California over Washington: The Trojan defense will be stacked to stop the running of Don Moore and the plunging of Jeff Jordan.

Nebraska over Wisconsin: One of the poorest Wisconsin teams of recent years collides with one of Nebraska's best.

Ohio State over Illinois: If you don't have courage, don't bet on this one.

Tennessee over Georgia Tech: For the fourth straight week the TV fans will watch a pair of unbeaten teams. The Tennessee defense, which hasn't yet allowed a touchdown, to melt the effectiveness of Lenny Snow.

Florida over Florida State: Steve Spurrier will find his targets often enough to pull it out although this meeting is more than a game for Florida State.

Dartmouth over Princeton: For years this meeting ended the Ivy League season but here it is on World Series Saturday, with Dartmouth the host. That makes it even tougher for Princeton.

Texas over Oklahoma: The annual Dallas battle. Super Bill Bradley, the young Texas quarterback is out with an injury, but sophomore Andy White, who completed six of eight passes last week, is expected to be a capable replacement.

This week we have not one but two four-star upset specials for you, dear readers. Look for Baylor to outfight rugged Arkansas, 22-20, as Bears' quarterback Terry Southall fills the air with flying pigskins, and Washington's Huskies to stun undefeated Southern California, 24-20.

Saturday's Bitter Rivalries Make Forecaster's Job a Difficult One

Egad, friends, solving the complexities surrounding this week's collegiate football classics would tax the mental powers of 11 Einsteins!

However, the more difficult the challenge, the more it—kaff-kaff—appeals to a Hoople. So, without further ado, let us tackle this Saturday's tough ones.

Two of the major contests feature traditional intrastate rivalries — Michigan-Michigan State and Florida-Florida State. The Hoople System foresees the Spartans taking the measure of Michigan's Wolverines, 25-21, and Florida's Gators whipping the Seminoles, 16-11.

In a hotly contested struggle at Dallas, I predict Oklahoma will climb back to high ranking status by edging Texas, 17-16.

Feels Porks Must Do Lot of Adjusting

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorback have a lot of adjusting to do in preparation for their Southwest Conference football game against Baylor here Saturday. Coach Frank Broyles said Tuesday.

He said the fifth-ranked Porkers will be facing a wide tackle six defense for the first time and Saturday will be the first time they've seen the drop-back pass to any great extent.

Tulsa's Glen Dobbs showed the Razorbacks a sample of the drop-back pass in the final quarter of the 27-8 Arkansas victory over the Hurricane.

Asst. Coach Mickey O'Quinn, who scouted the Bears, said Baylor would be the best team the Porkers have faced thus far this year.

Absent from Tuesday's two-hour and 20-minute workout which included plenty of contact work, were All-American Loyd Phillips, Richard Trea and Mike Jordan. Broyles said he expected them to be back a day or two.

'Warns Strike Will Hamper War Effort

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators in the General Electric Corp. labor dispute get down to hard bargaining today after hearing a special White House panel warn that a strike would seriously hurt the Viet Nam war effort.

Resumption of the talks — halted since Sunday, when President Johnson won a delay of a threatened nationwide union walkout — was announced by chief federal mediator William E. Stimpkin. At odds are the giant electrical company and the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor exchanged views Tuesday with company and union negotiators in dual sessions.

McNamara and other defense officials said at a Pentagon briefing that a strike would threaten seriously the flow of military hardware to U.S. fighting men in Viet Nam. He said this included engines for jet fighters and helicopters, radar and other electronic equipment, bomb sights and aircraft weapons.

Both sides agreed to a two-week extension of present contract terms, beginning at 12:01 a.m. last Monday, so federal officials could try to steer the talks to a settlement.

General Electric has offered a three-year contract with wage hikes of 4 per cent the first year and 3 per cent each in the second and third years, additional increases for higher skilled employees, 6 cents in cost-of-living raises over the three years and pension and insurance improvements.

The firm offered an additional 3-cent cost-of-living raise if the union agreed to a 42-month contract.

The union is demanding bigger cost-of-living increases, better procedures for settling grievances and other gains to make up for what it calls poor contracts of earlier years.

The IUE represents about 80,000 of the 120,000 union workers involved at about 160 GE plants around the nation.

Their pay averages about $2.80 per hour in wages and 45 cents an hour in fringe benefits under the old contract.

Nobody Works Harder for Civil Rights

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most people in this country, Negro or white, have never seen or heard of Clarence Mitchell, a tall, husky, rather shy man who has led a completely dedicated life.

There can be few, if any, men alive who have worked longer or harder for civil rights and an end to racial discrimination and injustice than this 55-year old Negro with a soft voice and a great supply of self-control.

Television cameras seldom show him, news stories seldom mention him. For 21 years, as Washington representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, he has worked inside.

His efforts have been aimed at getting civil rights legislation through Congress, getting the government to enforce legislation already on the books, banning discrimination in and out of government.

This means: Working under the Capitol dome with members of Congress, with all that involves in rounding up votes, consulting on bills to get them as strong and effective as he can; consulting with lawyers in the Justice Department on legislation and enforcement; conferring with White House aides of the President on all the ramifications of civil rights.

This is all work on the inside, out of public view. It's the outside men, like Stokely Carmichael and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who supply the civil rights movement with its dramatics and so become national figures.

Carmichael, with his ambiguous harangues, inflames some Negroes and angers or dismays some whites. King, with his speeches and marches, has come to symbolize the Negroes' struggle. Carmichael is head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. King heads the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

But they are Johnnies-comelately compared with Mitchell who has been at his job since 1945, lives in Baltimore and commutes to his Washington office, works 9 to 12 hours five days a week, and seldom has weekends home. He spends them going around the country discussing civil rights with interested groups.

Many individuals and organizations have been responsible for the progress made so far. But Mitchell's role in all of it is basic. If there had been no Mitchell, he would have had to be invented.

To an outsider much of his work may seem like drudgery. The endless conversations and consultations, arguments, frustrations, attention to details, push for action, and all repeated year after year.

The progress has been painfully slow but the life of Mitchell's own family is like a bridge between the past and the future.

He had to go to Lincoln University in Pennsylvania back in the early 1930s because the University of Maryland was segregated. Then it began to desegregate and Mitchell's wife, Juanita, and his brother, Parren, got degrees there.

Mrs. Mitchell, a lawyer in private practice, is also Baltimore counsel for the NAACP. The oldest of the Mitchells' four sons, also named Clarence, is a member of the Maryland Legislature, one of the three youngest persons ever elected to it. He is running for the state Senate now.

A Plaque commemorating 35 years of friendly relations was presented here today to Hervy Holt, at left, of Hamm Tire and Appliance Company by D. D. Young, Jr., General Line salesman for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. The Award is symbolic of the long association between the two companies.

This association dates back to the time the late B. R. Hamm started handling Goodyear Tires through B. R. Hamm Motor Company. Hamm Tire & Appliance Co. continued this successful relationship when in 1945 the company branched out into the appliance field.

The plaque shows the dealership's name which is embossed in bronze across the top of the black walnut panel and a medalion showing the number "35" is attached in the center of the panel.

Mr. Holt says that he and his organization intends to continue to build their business on the basis of seeing that customers get the maximum amount of service and value out of the products they sell and that they will continue to emphasize service—a practice which has long been a trade-mark of Hamm Tire & Appliance.

cating frustrations in Mitchell's 21 years here. Because of Southern opposition, no civil rights bill could be passed in this century until 1957. Then others went through in 1960, 1964, 1965. Mitchell had a hand in all of them.

This looks like a dream to Mitchell now, compared with what he encountered when he started. In the postwar years none of President Harry S. Truman's civil rights legislative program — anti-lynching, anti-poll tax, fair employment practices commission — had a chance.

But Truman got civil rights rolling through executive orders banning segregation in the armed forces and discrimination in federal employment.

Although his part in what the government has done since 1945 is so little known publicly, Mitchell has the satisfaction of realizing his life has borne fruit. He says he is living now for the things his children will do.

Larry Label Urges Good Judgement

You no doubt have seen or soon will be seeing "Larry the Label" on your television screen pointing up the safe use of pesticides. What is the history of Larry? Well, "Larry originated as a result of an appropriation made by Congress to educate the American Public in the safe and effective use of pesticides. "Larry" has been created by pesticide Extension people of the six New England states plus Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. David Shriver, Assistant Professor of Entomology at the University of Maryland, was "quarterback" of this team. State pesticide safety coordinators use "Larry" to tell their story much in the same manner that "Reddy Kilowatt," "Smokey the Bear," "Pestina," or "Yogi Berra" aid in gaining attention to their respective causes. The next time you see "Larry the Label" urging you to use good judgment and common sense by reading and following directions on pesticide labels, think of Larry and his simple message, "Safe use of pesticides."

Buddhists Patching Up Bitter Feud

An AP News Analysis
By KENNETH L. WHITING
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Moderate Buddhist leaders are patching up the bitter feud with South Viet Nam's military regime caused by the radical Buddhists.

The militant Buddhists spread turmoil in Saigon and cities in the northern part of South Viet Nam six months ago. The government cracked down, and Buddhist leaders now are divided and isolated.

Monks and laymen arrested during the government riots in May and June are trickling out of jail, let go in an apparent conciliatory move by the government. Eleven were freed over the weekend.

More than 1,000 were rounded up during the rioting. Sources say several hundred hard-core militant Buddhists and their followers remain behind bars.

They have not been charged. The Unified Buddhist Church (UBC), one faction of Viet Nam's leading religion, spearheaded unrest which led to the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963. But the radical monks misjudged the situation when they tried to topple premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government, the sources said.

Their demonstrations attracted world attention without getting the army support in South Viet Nam necessary to change the government. Ky's victory and the successful assembly elections Sept. 11 gave the junta its firmest control in 14 months in office.

Ky rules by careful consensus of his National Military Committee. The only threat to the air force commander at present may be from rivalry within the junta, sources report.

Thich Tri Quang, who led the militant Buddhists, tacitly admitted the government's secure position when he called off a fast Sept. 17 after 100 days. He had said he would not eat until Ky fell but actually subsisted on dextrose and water with an occasional fruit juice chaser.

He now lives in Saigon's An Quang pagoda from which he and die-hard followers led an unsuccessful boycott of the election. More than 80 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots.

The eclipse of the militant Buddhists was due partly to public apathy. Some observers believe the public got tired of their antics.

THE BORN LOSEER

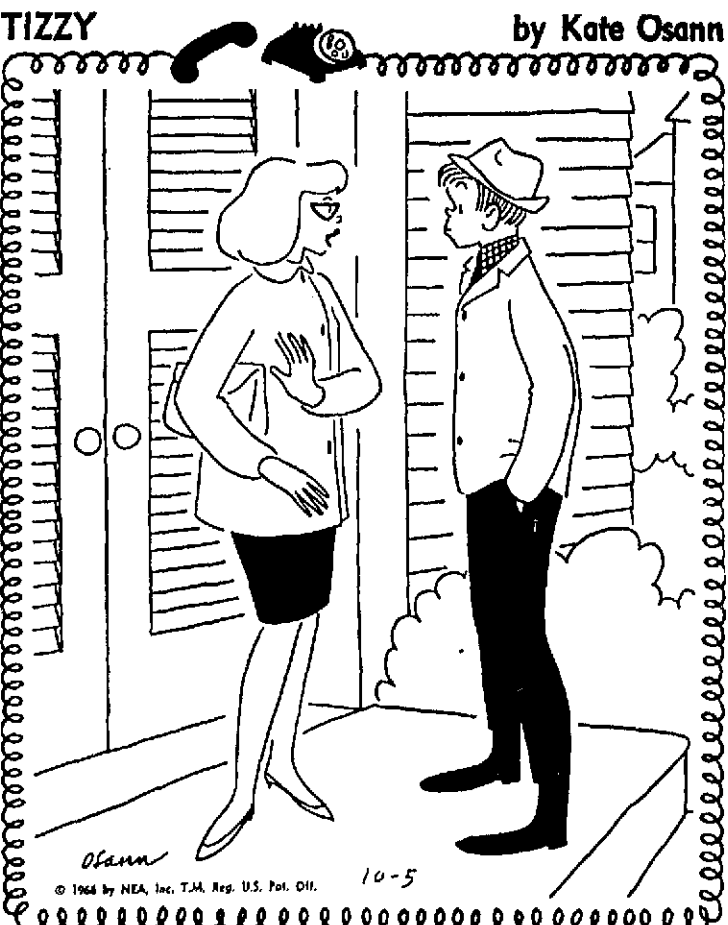

By ART SANSON

Biological warfare has been used since time immemorial. In ancient times the bodies of cholera and plague victims were dropped over the walls of beleaguered cities and wells were often poisoned. Napoleon flooded the ground near a besieged city, hoping malaria would result. In the United States blankets were often contaminated by traders and distributed among Indians to reduce their fighting strength through smallpox epidemics.

Oswald asks Jim what he thinks is the principal difference between rubber bridge and duplicate play.

Jim: "You already know the answer. At duplicate you go after extra tricks. At rubber bridge you are far more concerned with the safety of the contract."

Oswald: "Here is a hand played recently by Bobby Wolff of San Antonio. I can't say that I approve of his opening bid of one no-trump with five hearts, four diamonds and two suits unstopped but there was nothing wrong with the final contract of three no-trump. West opened the jack of diamonds. Bobby won in his own hand and counted five hearts, three diamonds and a club provided that the hearts behaved properly for him. Then he studied awhile, led back a diamond and finessed dummy's nine spot."

Jim: "That was strictly a duplicate play. At rubber bridge Bobby would have been happy to go after his nine tricks by running off hearts right away. In duplicate Bobby wanted four no-trump in order to be sure to outscore anyone who bid and made four hearts."

Oswald: "Right. It is important to note that careless play might have cost Bobby his contract later on. When the nine of diamonds held Bobby's next play was to lead the ten of hearts, not the five, to his king. Then he returned to dummy with the queen of hearts, cashed the ace of hearts, led the five of hearts, finessed his nine after East followed low and made his four no-trump for a top score."

Jim: "An automatic play for a player of Bobby's caliber. Experts just don't trap themselves by playing the wrong low card."

Hard-line Advice to GOP Candidates

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Republicans are giving GOP campaigners some hard-line advice on domestic matters and on the war in Viet Nam.

To some extent, it sounds an echo of the policies Barry Goldwater advocated in his losing campaign for the White House. Goldwater was not on hand Monday when a council of party leaders declared the United States should fight harder in Viet Nam, and demanded steps to deal with rioting and crime in American cities.

Both positions are in line with the stands he took two years ago.

A Republican spokesman said the policy statements, issued by the Republican Coordinating Committee, will be sent to all the nominees now campaigning to rebuild the party's battered fortunes in Congress and in state offices.

GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss cautiously forecast "reasonable gains" in the elections now little more than a month away.

But he also reported that GOP polls show "a reasonable number of people undecided," and he said the situation is volatile.

Bliss said the war is the voters' No. 1 concern, but worries about civil rights, crime and racial violence are not far behind.

Goldwater and President Johnson agreed in advance of their campaign that racial tensions should be avoided as a political topic.

Bliss was asked whether the GOP considers civil rights and racial violence a legitimate issue in the current campaign.

"Law and order is of paramount importance to 99 per cent of the people of this nation regardless of race, color or creed," he replied.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower spoke bitterly of deliberate rioting "engendered for no purpose but to hurt the rest of us."

And the committee said Republicans would take steps to deal with "increasing disregard for the rights of others, creeping cynicism toward corruption, and mounting outbreaks of crime, violence and mob madness."

Thinks War to Soon Be Expanded

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. the Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen predicted today the war in Viet Nam will have to be expanded soon.

However, Dirksen made it clear in an interview he does not expect President Johnson to resort to the use of nuclear weapons — an action GOP former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said he would not "automatically" preclude.

"Things can't go on like they are in Viet Nam," the senator from Illinois said. "You either escalate the fighting or think in some other terms. We can't surrender and we can't retreat."

Meanwhile, others had this to say about military action in Southeast Asia:

— The State Department: Its "information indicates" that Soviet missile specialists in North Viet Nam are limited strictly to training activities.

— Deputy Prime Minister Abdul Razak of Malaysia: "Well, I think so, yes. With the request of the South Viet Nam government," his country would probably send troops to South Viet Nam.

— Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., a leading critic of administration policy: What he called administration silence of the U.S. buildup in Thailand puts Congress in the position of "easily and compliantly — if not enthusiastically — becoming the instrument of the President."

In predicting that the war will have to be expanded, Dirksen mentioned no troop buildup figures.

He said that the question of nuclear weapons was discussed by the GOP group but only in the context of their possible use "in an emergency, if your back was to the wall and there was nothing else to do."

Eisenhower said "I would do anything that would bring the war to an honorable conclusion as rapidly as I could."

This fell short of satisfying Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. He called in an interview for Eisenhower to "produce specifics" on how he would go about ending the war.

The Case of the Cornered Cat Picture Record

Garland Bosley, who travels the state for the Little Rock photo supply house Jungkind Co., tells this one:

He had an appointment with the head cameraman of another off-set newspaper at the office at 7 p.m., but 7:15 came and went and his man didn't show; and when he finally appeared at 7:30 the fellow's arms were swathed in bandages.

"What happened?" Bosley asked.

"It's unbelievable," replied the cameraman, but I'll tell you."

He had gone to his mother's house for supper, opened the trunk of his car to take out something for her house, and went in leaving the trunk open. After supper he closed the car's trunk and started for his own place en route to the office, but was pursued by muffled "miauls" from what he thought were neighborhood cats.

But on stopping at his own house the "miauls" suddenly became stationary and he realized they were coming from his car. Opening the trunk he found the source.

There was a gap between the back wall of the trunk and the shell of the car's body, and into this narrow tunnel a cat had crawled — and couldn't back out. The cat was "talking" loud and fast.

Our cameraman grabbed the cat by its tail, jerked it free, and threw it into the sedan, in the course of which the frenzied feline raked both of his arms, but good.

It was his mother's cat, so he drove back to her house, delivered the cat, administered first-aid to his damaged arms — accounting for his 30 minutes delay in reaching Bosley at the office.

Editor's Note: In case you have been spelling the cry of a cat "meow," I have news for you; "miaul" is authentic. Your "meow" may be the homespun version, but Unabridged Webster's never heard of it.

According to the Chinese one picture is worth 10,000 words. At that rate The Star during September was a jam-packed newspaper.

Officially we totaled 248 pages September's 26 editions, an average of 9 1/2 pages per paper. But during September we published 220 pictures, an average 8.4 per paper — equivalent, according to the Chinese, to the type required to fill the space of 220 pictures multiplied by 10,000. For this you should give credit.

The Star's staff and to the public who helped out by borrowing our three loan cameras for noteworthy events. The newspaper staff loaded the cameras, developed the films, made the prints, and turned them into reamed negatives for the press rates. Your editor, who handled the news pictures and the process camera which makes the final screened negatives for the first eight months, quit the job of August — since when the staff have been on their own. A first-class job, and I congratulate them.

Allies Maul Red Force Relentlessly

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen and allied forces pressed relentlessly in on a badly mauled Communist force near the coast of central Viet Nam today and reported a mounting toll of 637 enemy troops killed or captured in four days of fighting.

The helicopter-borne American troops pushing down from the north claimed 43 more North Vietnamese regulars or Viet Cong killed in the last 24 hours of Operation Irving and 60 more captured.

Units of the South Korean Tiger Division, battering at the Reds from the south, said they killed 77 more Communists and captured three. Along with South Vietnamese infantrymen holding the western flank, the allied total reported since Sunday reached 443 enemy killed and an unprecedented 194 captured.

The U.S. air offensive against North Viet Nam was hampered by foul weather, but B52 bombers, flying at high altitudes above the weather, struck twice in South Viet Nam.

The eight-engine jets hit at dawn today against a Communist bivouac and storage area 45 miles northwest of Qui Nhon, about 20 miles north of the allied forces in Operation Irving.

Other formations of B52s struck simultaneously at Viet Cong strongholds in the Seven Mountains area along the Cambodian border 120 miles southwest of Saigon. Their targets were training, resupply and base camp areas of the Viet Cong in flood-swept Chau Doc province.

U.S. pilots flew 125 bombing missions against North Viet Nam Tuesday and lost one plane, the U.S. Command announced. A Navy A4 Skyhawk was shot down, the 392nd U.S. loss reported in the war over the north. The pilot is missing.

U.S. pilots aimed most of their strikes against Communist water traffic and storage buildings. They reported destroying or damaging 75 barges, junks and ferries and more than 50 buildings in staging and storage areas.

U.S. pilots flew 393 sorties against Viet Cong targets in South Viet Nam Tuesday and claimed they destroyed or damaged 263 huts, structures, bunkers and fortified positions and 10 sampans. South Vietnamese pilots flew 169 combat sorties.

Operation Irving on the central coast appeared to be developing into one of the most successful allied campaigns of the war. The size of the enemy force was unknown, but one report said it included elements of North Viet Nam's 610th Division.

The long dreamed of possibility will become a reality on October 7, when the Garland House is opened to the public for the first time. This stately old house of Greek Revival architecture was built in 1836, by Simon T. Sanders. He was the father of Virginia, who was married from the west parlor to Augustus H. Garland in 1853. Here Mr. Garland's family lived for several years while he was called away by his myriad duties.

The restored house is elegant enough to be designated "The Governor's Mansion," which would be no misnomer since Mr. Garland did serve his state as chief executive. Perhaps his greatest fame, however, lies in his ability as a constitutional lawyer, and cabinet member, having served Grover Cleveland as Attorney General.

Each of the four rooms is a veritable storehouse of Arkansas history. The dining room, papered with scenic panels, copied from Williamsburg originals, houses the personal china, silver and crystal from the William R. King home in Memphis. Mr. and Mrs. King will be remembered as the donors of the Tavern, and Mrs. King's estate made possible the restoration of the house.

The library, with its shelves from native walnut, will house the personal library of J. N. Heiskell's father. Mr. Heiskell is the present owner and editor of the Arkansas Gazette. This is a signal honor to have the library of this outstanding personage in Washington.

Schools Deals Ruled Legal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office said Tuesday that school districts can contract with the federal government to operate a community facility.

Requesting the opinion were superintendents of the Batesville and Deer (Newton County) school districts, who have applied for grants under the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965.

The districts want to operate facilities for a variety of community purposes, such as adult education, remedial reading, social activities, cultural programs and arts and crafts and recreational programs.

Faubus Cancels Washington Trip

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus cancelled Tuesday a scheduled trip to Washington to try to get federal funds for additional construction at the Children's Colony and for development of a trade school at Camden.

Arkansan Killed in Colorado

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — James Edward Tanner, 75, of Hot Springs, Ark., was killed when a car he was in and another car collided here Monday.

Road Bids Include 4.6 Miles on 130 in Guernsey Area

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Highway Department said Tuesday it would open bids Oct. 26 on eight projects which will cost an estimated $4 million.

The projects, by county: Monroe and Woodruff — Paving of 3.7 miles of Arkansas 38 from Arkansas 17 east of Cotton Plant to Arkansas 39 south of Hunter.

Hempstead — Surface preparation for 4.6 miles of Interstate 30 from near the Guernsey Road Grade Separation northeastward to and including the Arkansas 4 Interchange northwest of Hope.

Lafayette — Surfacing of 4.4 miles of Arkansas 53 from the north limit of Buckner northward.

Johnson — Interstate signing of 10 miles of Interstate 40, 1.1 miles west of Arkansas 64 Interchange west of Clarksville eastward to U.S. 64 Interchange south of Lamar.

Washington — Surfacing of 3.3 miles of Arkansas 265 from the county road west of Greenland to Fayetteville.

Searcy — Surfacing of 4.7 miles of Arkansas 14 from 0.2 miles north of Big Creek to the Baxter County line.

Clay — Bridge with approaches across the Little Black River on Arkansas 211 at Success.

Faubus Wears Johnson Button

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — What's that "I'm for Jim Johnson" campaign button doing in your lapel? a reporter asked Gov. Orval Faubus Tuesday after a news conference.

"It has no special significance," Faubus said. "Someone gave it to me down at the hotel the other night after the meeting with the welfare workers when Justice Johnson, Mr. Rockefeller and I attended."

Newsmen pressed Faubus to say if he was going to actively campaign for Johnson, the Democratic nominee for governor.

"Well, you already know, it's been in the news, that I've offered to help in the campaign. At the present time, there's been no response," Faubus said.

Mme. Chiang on Private Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Tuesday in reply to a question from Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., that Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek is in this country on a private visit.

Fulbright said he wanted to know the "precise status" of the visit of the first lady of Nationalist China, since it appeared that she was seeking to shape U.S. foreign policy in speeches against Communist China.

Canadians Report Letup in Bombing

OTTAWA (AP) — The United States has taken a pause in its bombing of part of the buffer zone separating the two Viet Nams, the Canadian Press reported today. This "has given some hope, no matter how dim, of a general pause in the war's fury," it said.

The Canadian Press spoke of a new policy which it said "appears to be to carry out a pause in a confined area to see whether it brings a similar disengagement by the Communists." It emphasized that the Communist response—if any—is not known in Ottawa.

4000 Silver Dollars Bring IRS $6,200

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Great Taker of America's Money, the Internal Revenue Service, came out a winner Tuesday when it tried something different—selling money.

The IRS sold 4,000 silver dollars and other miscellaneous coins at a public auction which drew about 60 persons.

The coins were seized two years ago from John Robert Harrell, former religious cult leader at Louisville, 1., who was arrested at a farm home near Strawberry, Ark.

The IRS said he was $257,425 behind in paying his taxes, and rather than putting the coins into the U.S. Treasury at their face value of $4,424, the agency decided to sell them to get some additional money to apply to Harrell's debt.

The sale brought $6,770. The auctioneer took bids on the coins in bulk and in small groups, and the bulk method won, by $75, much to the disappointment of those who wanted small parcels of coins.

Tobe Monday of Webster Groves, Mo., was the bulk bidder on the silver dollars. He mailed the IRS a certified check for $6,200 and no one topped it.

Before the auction, one coin dealer had appraised the silver dollars at $9,000 and the other coins at $600.

Dalton Dalley of Little Rock bought the rest of the coins with a bulk bid of $570.

The coins were found in a barrel in a shed behind Harrell's home at Strawberry, where he and his family had lived incognito for 12 months.

He was returned to Illinois and sentenced to 10 years on a charge of harboring a Marine Corps deserter in August of 1961 in the mansion which was headquarters for his church, the Christian Conservative Church.

Welfare to Continue Hospital Pay

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Welfare Commissioner A. J. Moss said Tuesday that the state Welfare Department will continue to pay the average daily cost of hospital care for welfare patients.

Representatives of the Arkansas Hospital Association and Welfare Department officials met Monday to review a temporary arrangement worked out in July and decided to make it permanent.

Earlier in July, the hospitals announced that they would no longer admit persons on welfare unless the Welfare Department agreed to pay the full costs of their care. They said they had been losing too much money.

The Welfare Department, after a brief delay, agreed to pay the average daily costs recommended by the Hospital Association in August and September and then review the situation.

The Welfare Department later said it had found that it will save between $250,000 and $300,000 a month on medical expenses for welfare clients because the federal government through Medicare will be picking up the bill in many cases.
